

Allowah Presbyterian Children's Hospital

is a private hospital which cares for children and young people aged from birth to 18 years.

Allowah was first established in a house in Artarmon over 50 years ago and was relocated to its present site in Dundas, New South Wales in 1976.

In February 2004 Allowah was purchased by the Presbyterian Church and is currently undergoing a major redevelopment programme.

Our goal is to make a real difference to the lives of these children who, in all probability, may never enjoy many stages and opportunities in life that we take for granted.

Day care Programme

Available from 8:30am to 4:00pm Monday to Friday (excludes public holidays).

Individually planned programmes which complement those already established by the child's community team.

We have met with considerable success in specialised short term programmes to resolve difficult feeding and sleeping problems.

Day Care includes all the services available to children receiving night care. In most cases, the cost of day patient care is covered by your private health fund - Day Only.

What are our aims?

- To provide the highest quality of skilled care and to enable each child to develop and achieve his or her fullest potential by providing individual programmes.
- To ensure that in their care and treatment, each child's entitlements to their rights, privacy, respect, and dignity are met.
- To provide programmed managed care so that more children, young people, and adolescents with special needs/disabilities are supported at home as part of the family unit.

Who do we care for?

Children aged from birth to 16 years who have moderate to severe physical and intellectual disabilities such as genetic or chromosomal disorders, birth trauma, cerebral palsy and head injuries.

What geographical area?

We accept children from throughout New South Wales and, where necessary, Australia wide.

Temporary care and Crisis Intervention

From time to time infants, children, and adolescents require temporary care in hospital when they require feeding programmes, assessment and resolution of behavioural problems, intensive physiotherapy, relief from family crises, and other medical care.

Individual Family Service Plans

Each child will have a yearly multi-disciplinary meeting called an "IFSP". From this new goals are set in consultation with the family. These goals are reviewed periodically and alterations are made to the child's Care Management Plan.
